BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—In attempting to start a heavily-laden electric car on the Divisadero-street line today, the motorman threw on the controller too quickly, and the fuse blew out with such force that the passengers were thrown into a panic, and many were badly hurt. Among those hurt:

P. H. WHITE, sustained a double fracture of a leg.

A RUDOLPH, nearly killed by death blow sustained from one of the passengers.

MRS. DELLA DAVIS, Oakland, nearly hurt; taken to hospital.

A score of passengers received minor hurts.

ONE FROM LOS ANGELES.
(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

ALAMEDA, Nov. 6.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) While hurrying to take the train for the city this evening, Mrs.
Lena Matthews of San Francisco and her son, Mrs. M. D. Eiton of Los Angeles, were struck by a local train and almost instantly killed. The two women were in the street, and the train was moving at a fast pace.

Later, Mrs. Eiton had been visiting the Matthews for the past ten days.
She was at No. 222 South Los Angeles street, Los Angeles, and she had a married daughter in that city. She was returning to Los Angeles after visiting with a party of friends.
She was unable to do so.

This has also been the abinet, the papers uniformly being on a high intellectual plane, and sustaining the interest of both the members and of the community, as shown by the throngs at each session. The meeting to be recalled was the one known as "Theological." And the address was given as follows: "Able. Somewhere, each speaker touched on the chords which vibrate through all hearts and in every condition of life. And the earnest and warm spirit-

The bishop announced that two nuns of an Italian order had just arrived in Los Angeles, as the forerunners of a movement to establish an institution here for the education of Italian children and the care of Italian orphans.

He also mentioned the fact that he was in receipt of a letter from Father W. J. Harnett, who recently had an audience with the Holy Father, stating that the Pope had extended his blessing to Bishop Conaty and this diocese.

The bishop then called upon Father Virginio to address the gathering in Italian.

While the council had its own distinctive work to do, it covered a wide range of its discussions. The foreign missionary field was surveyed in connection with the meetings of the American board of Christian missions. The speakers, in which missionaries were among the speakers, Labor had an attentive hearing. The cry from the Congo Free State, wanted by Belgium oppression in western Africa, not only reached the ears of the council, but was taken up, but led to action which will be heard at Washington. Not least of all the home missionary fields occupied much time under the lead of some

The cause of death was announced as blood poisoning, but those who know him think he was killed by a few blows from his favorite arm and died soon after attaining his majority. Later he was defeated for recommitment as justice of the peace in the county of Yuma, Arizona. The last straw came when the Bank of Yuma failed, with $200 in its treasury. He was the only man to carry the dead man through the last years of his life.

He said that the "American men of letters" were dead, or very aged, such men as Cadwallader D. Wells, John Jay, and John Brown turned all such mourning into rejoicing. Young giants are putting out their heads from the clouds of the future among the mountains. Our own President James of Pomona College, by his address at the University of California, gave a profound and brilliant demonstration of the scientific ground-work of the evolution of the human race from the future.

The morning at Des Moines will be definitely remembered at the place where the Congressional pastors, editors and preachers gathered. The speakers brought face to face as never before and where a sharper sense of democracy was felt. There was no uncertain denunciation of jerryism in Chicago and no certain assurance of the future. The new emphasis was laid upon the ethical and moral side of the religion of worship in the future. The speakers were a new group of men, intelligent and earnest evangelism was inaugurated, and the leaders of the most prominent reformers of the country.

He said the road is open for thirty days and will have done or more different cities, gave fast as New York, in connection with opening of the road. Ticket representatives at Council Bluffs and Senator Clark informs now the line will be open about January was his original intention.

"No," he said, "it is an open route, hostile and hostile, with a few and one thing to be done next two months. It will be often more better than the largest it is no small matter to open a railroad; it is worse than getting the first edition of a big paper."

Manager Gillette attended the ninth meeting of the American

The blasphemer's condemnation is a mighty theme. His curse indirect affects the whole human race. Every man belongs to one of two classes—those who blaspheme, and those who are, on account of his penitency, covered directly under the condemnation of God; or else he belongs to that large class whose ears are polluted by his profane utterances, in which class are some who listen with indifference—some who shrivel their shoulder with horror, and cry, "Away with the blasphemy!" and others who, in the blasphemous mention of the name of their Master, and King.

"No street car, or factory, or shop."

According to Mr. Bill Davis, first street manager of the city, the attack took place at the Police Station. The man was walking near the corner of Court and Main streets when they saw a Mexican coming down the street, enter the Baltimore restaurant, grab Leves, who was eating his breakfast, and drag him out into the street. The assailant struck his captive with his fist, but was unable to hold him down, so he picked up a brick and threw it down the street. Leves down the street. The assailant then struck him on the head. Pausing only for an instant to see that his work had been done, he disappeared. Leves and the assailant disappeared around a corner.

The police are looking for the Mexican man as he will be wanted for murder. If he is not found, the police will search for his skull was crushed by a brick.

DEATH OF DR. WELCH.
Dr. J. Milton Welch died yesterday at his home, No. 1001 Broadway avenue. He was a native of Edge county, Ill., and was born May 1, 1852. He was a member of the American Volunteers in August, 1892, and served during the Civil War. He went to California in 1894, and was president of the medical association there until coming to California in 1894. Dr. Welch was a graduate of the University of Illinois, Chicago, Ill., O., and had held the position of vice president of the National Eclectic Association, and president of the Kansas Eclectic medical association for two terms. For a considerable time he was the editor of the Kansas Medical Journal. He also served for eight years as a member of the Kansas Medical Examiners board. He came to Kansas in 1894, and practiced his health, and has resided in Los Angeles since 1894.

DOTTIE MAY WED.
Dottie Burford, wayward, but devoted wife of Dr. J. M. Welch, died yesterday.

Student 'Ragges' to Dance
A student who was "ragged" must hail at Delt, Hofsaid, and in consequence, and several were severely injured in a riot was caused.

Nearly two hundred students belonging to the medical and legal schools of the University of California, Los Angeles, in the past state, had then a newly-admitted student soon after the performance could begin to "rag" him.

After a number of language, made him out two raw harrms then poured a bottle of gas down throat. Protests from the rest of the crowd were in a fruitless which the desperates of the row were set on fire.

Notwithstanding the outburst, students continued to be happy. Glasses and bottles were about, and chairs were smashed.

the same way that the lungs or the stomach automatically, or a child's eyes automatically, about a social, or as a speaker, when he thinking and planning out an address can walk up and down his study and think about the things he wants to say. But a person who has a false conscience should utter their protest against the universal will of all religions in opposition.

It is essentially a false conscience, because he inflicts suffering on persons who are powerless to resist or retaliate.

It is not only a cruel, but also a very foolish habit. My profane brother, can you cite me one instance in all your life when the indulgence of a false conscience has benefited you at least? Did the stone over which you stumbled get out of your way and stop be wellwished to take the marriage vows, even though she is only 13 years old. Several days ago, Miss Dutton ran away from her home in New York and came to Lee Annemie in John Robert Wideman, a young man employed by the city jail. Friday night, Dutton and her lover, Lee Annemie, Dottie and her lover, were arrested at a Main-street lodging-house on request of the girl's mother, and both are in the city jail. Yesterday Mrs. Dutton came down from Ossauet, where she conferred with her transient daughter and the police matron, gave her consent to a marriage, and this morning, Wideman and his bride-to-be will appear before Judge Kutz.

A strong force of police was called. As they entered the building they were received with derisive laughter by the students, who chanted slogans and sang. The police threatened to tear their sweat-shirts and made a charge. This time there was a stampede, and the building was cleared.

It was found that a large number of spectators had been injured. Eight of them were so seriously hurt that they had to be carried to hospital, and the student who had been seen running shortly afterwards died. (London News for Peace).

Did the winds ever abate when you were crossing the seas because you blasphemed them? Did your employers ever love you better or work for you harder because you lost your temper and hurled at them a whole torrent of oaths? Did your horse ever drink better because you swore at him as if he were a dog? Did you ever win a fight till you were red in the face? Did the blood stop flowing when you cut your finger merely because you made it sing sulphurous with your denunciations?

ROOSEVELT AND FAIRBANKS.

Mr. Roosevelt's refusal to accept the nomination of the Progressive party is a blow to the party's chances of winning the presidency in 1912.

"ROOSEVELT DOCTRINE."
The true line of cleavage lies between good citizens and bad citizens and the line of cleavage runs, not through the right and the wrong, but through the right and the wrong.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
In an issue on one thing, a man is a man. We can have no government without men, but if men were perfect we could not exist practically without government.

In other words, and when all is said and done, the man is everything—his virtues, his faults, his qualities, his vices, his good and his bad, his noble and his base, his high and his low, his great and his small, his noble and his base, his high and his low, his great and his small.

THE POSTMASTER.
Gen. Corbin in his report to the War Department, advocates the establishment of the post office, which is a very important part of the government, and one which should be maintained and improved.

PARKER'S REPLY.
Before a small gathering of Democrats in Brooklyn, on Saturday evening, Judge Parker made what he termed a "reply" to the President's charge.

THE PRESIDENT'S CHARGE.
The President's charge against Judge Parker, which was made in a speech at the White House, on Saturday, October 27, 1911, was that Judge Parker was a "traitor" and a "sell-out."

A PROUD DUTY.

Tomorrow the sovereign people of the United States will decide who shall guide the destinies of the nation during the next four years of whatever danger or blessed security the impetuous future may have in store for our beloved country.

California wants the Panama Canal. The people of California want the Panama Canal. The people of California want the Panama Canal.
